EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Celebrating positive occasions fosters happiness through socialization, bonding, and the creation of cherished memories. However, organizing events entails meticulous budgeting, which can pose significant challenges due to various factors such as venue, attire, and catering. This paper addresses the hurdles of budget planning by introducing the Event Budget Manager. Drawing upon insights from "The Importance of Social Connection for Happiness and Well-being" by Barnes and Duck (2006), which highlights the significance of celebrating positive moments in fostering social bonds and positive emotions, this research proposes a solution to improve event budgeting processes.

The Event Budget Manager was designed to facilitate efficient budget planning by providing a platform for resource owners and suppliers to showcase their services and prices. Organizers can easily browse through different offerings, select suitable options, and estimate their budgets swiftly. Moreover, the system enables organizers to provide feedback, fostering communication between organizers and suppliers, thus ensuring alignment with the event's vision.

In conclusion of this study, the developed Event Budget Manager was designed to allow users to have convenient, fast, and easy budgeting for the elements of an event. It provides a feature that allows event organizers to click and select needed resources for the specific event conveniently. The developed system enables suppliers and resource owners to post their resources and prices. This provides them an opportunity to attract more event organizers and increase profits. It is very useful for them since there will be a broader customer base that can see their resources. The system has been tested, and its effectiveness is very useful based on the beta testing conducted. Users provided positive feedback regarding its effectiveness.
